

Roundup of Energy & General news for 17 - 23 Nov 2013

To all on the ITO Energy & General news server lists via b.c.c.

Canada's Largest Private Sector Union Calls For Fracking Moratorium

By Andrew Nikiforuk, Tyee news, 16 Nov 2013

"Unifor worried about 'frightening' pollution, worker safety, First Nations rights."

Don't Let BC Gamble Our Climate Future

By Ian Gill, 16 Nov 2013, TheTyee news.

"By pumping up natural gas and sacrificing precious land, Premier Clark keeps loading the dice."

Oil's biggest problem? A new 'peak' worry

by ERIC REGULY, ROME, Globe and Mail, Nov. 22 2013.

"Today, we can add a fresh new one: peak demand, as in oil demand."

Security borders on absurd in pipeline debate

by JACK KNOX, Times Colonist, Nov 24 2013.

"We shouldn't be surprised that the RCMP and CSIS kept tabs on environmentalists and at least two Victoria politicians during this year's Northern Gateway hearings. Given the tensions around the proposal, some security planning was needed."

ITO comment: we thank all those who did participate in those hearings!!

Conservation group queries Enbridge's B.C. dam plans

by Times Colonist, Nov 24 2013

PRINCE GEORGE — An environmental group is raising concerns about northwest salmon populations if a plan by a company affiliated with Enbridge goes ahead with a hydroelectric project along the Clore River.

Lloyd Skaalen
ITO Communications
IslandTransformations.Org